ICSB WORLD CONFERENCE

June 15-18, 2016

NJ/NY, USA

ICSB WORLD CONFERENCE PROGRAM: JUNE 15-16

WELCOME FROM THE ICSB PRESIDENT

Dear Colleagues,

It's with great enthusiasm that I welcome you to the 61st annual ICSB World Conference, June 15-18, 2016, in New Jersey/New York City, USA hosted by ICSB, the United Nations Global Compact, Stevens Institute of Technology, and the NYU School of Professional Studies.

Last year in Dubai, I spoke about feeling lucky to become the ICSB President on the 60th diamond anniversary, which has special meaning in Asia. Now as I think back to what we have accomplished, there is a great sense of fulfillment. We have seen progresses on each of the four tasks, in addition to keeping our wonderful traditions –new affiliates/chapters in the ASEAN region, a Survey for Humane Entrepreneurship and White Paper (2016), increased profile of the ICSB Academy, and partnership with global organizations, such as the United Nations (UN) and Hyundai Motor Group.

Without the hard work and support of the ICSB Board, the International Office, and the Affiliate and Chapter Board members around the world, this progress would not have been possible. ICSB members played a leading role in building relationships and creating new friendships that will grow the organization in the future. I'm very proud that ICSB has reached a new platform this year to bring together SMEs, policy makers, and scholars to generate meaningful synergy through their collaboration.

The Permanent Mission of Korea to the United Nations (ROK) and Ambassador Oh Joon have been particularly instrumental in the process of bringing the ICSB to the United Nations, and I want to extend a special thank you to them for their support. We expect a total of seven (7) government ministers to be in attendance (Argentina, Egypt, Indonesia, Korea, Lebanon, United States, and, New Zealand) and I am also delighted to welcome over one hundred (100) Korean delegates to 2016 ICSB World Conference.

The road to studying and supporting SMEs is lonesome, but when we come together each year at the ICSB World Conference, we see the friendships that endure. ICSB has a long tradition and dedication to SME development and should have a seat at the table to help bring economic development for the prosperous world. Dreaming alone is just a dream, dreaming together it becomes a reality.

Sincerely yours,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Ki Chan Kim". The signature is written in a cursive, slightly slanted style.

Dr. Ki-Chan Kim

President, International Council for Small Business (ICSB)-(2015-16)

WELCOME FROM THE ICSB EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear Colleagues,

In Chinese culture, 60 years holds special meaning. It is believed to be the year in which a person has completed a full cycle of life, and thus, following the 60th birthday, the person begins a new life. 2016 marks the 61st birthday of the ICSB. Once a nascent organization of likeminded individuals, today, is a global organization with members across 80 countries.

This year sheds light on an issue that troubles me greatly. A surprisingly significant number of countries do not have national legislation encouraging and institutionalizing SME development. Absence of formal support exists despite overwhelming evidence showcasing the critical role of SMEs for both economic development and social stability. This year, ICSB has built important relations with major international change-makers, such as the UN, the World Bank Group, ILO, and OECD to align business strategies and operations with universal principles on human rights, labor, environment and anti-corruption. In collaboration with Ambassador Oh Joon and the Permanent Mission of the Republic of Korea to the UN, we have brought together the experts to address the theme, "Sustainable Entrepreneurship – Transforming Our World Together" this week.

As we progress through the new millennium, the world yearns to improve the human experience and to protect the planet. Entrepreneurs seek to find the medium between innovation, opportunity recognition, and sustainability. Energy around entrepreneurship is youth-driven. Topics such as the SDGs are peaking internet searches; social entrepreneurs are welcomed with open arms; and the importance of entrepreneurial leadership is influencing popular press and classrooms.

None of this progress could have been made possible without our affiliates across the world, namely, Argentina, Egypt, Indonesia, Malaysia, and the United States. I would like to thank our conference partners this year: Hyundai Motor Group, K-Biz, Stevens Institute of Technology, New York University and TatweerMisr. We also would like to thank the UN Office of Partnerships for their support. A personal thank you also goes to Dr. Ki-Chan Kim for his exceptional leadership and for sharing the vision of humility and empathy in the study of entrepreneurship. The IO, Board of Directors, and I will look forward to welcoming Dr. Luca Landoli as the next President of ICSB and to thanking the George Washington University for its continued support and dedication to the ICSB.

Sincerely,

*Dr. Ayman El Tarabishy, Executive Director, International Council for Small Business (ICSB)
Associate Teaching Professor of Management, George Washington University (GWU)*

WELCOME FROM THE USASBE PRESIDENT

On behalf of the United States Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship (USASBE), I'm delighted to welcome you to the 61st annual ICSB World Conference.

This year represents is the first since 2010 that the ICSB World Conference has been hosted in the United States of America. The 55th annual World Conference in Cincinnati, Ohio featured participants from over 70 different countries, with USASBE playing an important role coordinating activities under the direction of Charles Matthews, Past-President of both ICSB and USASBE. We are proud to play a similar role this year under the leadership of Dr. Ki-Chan Kim.

USASBE, ICSB's affiliate in the United States, is dedicated to the advancement of the research and pedagogy of entrepreneurship in the United States and around the world, with over 1,000 members from universities and colleges, for-profit businesses, nonprofit organizations and the public sector.

Earlier this year at USASBE 2016 in San Diego, CA, the organization explored the topic of Entrepreneurship Everywhere: Across Campuses, Across Communities, Across Borders. The event featured new learning journeys, social entrepreneurship and technology certificate programs, pre-conference workshops, special interest group meetings, career services, competitive presentations, pillar sessions and much more.

USASBE continues to grow and prosper, with strategic alliances being formed and partnerships are being strengthened. Mark your calendar for January 19-22, 2017 to attend the next USASBE Annual Conference in Philadelphia, where you'll have the opportunity to "revolutionize your teaching" and help make entrepreneurship history.

Special thanks to Dr. Kim, the ICSB International Office and the rest of the Board for their collaboration over the past year. I'm excited to see the many avenues for collaboration, and was particularly pleased to get the opportunity to visit Seoul, South Korea earlier this year to be a part of declaration of Humane Entrepreneurship.

I look forward to meeting everyone this week, and also in Philadelphia next January 2017 for USASBE 2017.

Sincerely,

Dr. Ted Zoller, President, United States Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship (USASBE)

IL RETTORE

Dear Dr. Ki-Chan Kim,

It is with great pleasure that I write to you today to congratulate you and the International Council for Small Business's ("ICSB") Board of Directors for the remarkable road to promoting entrepreneurship and small and medium businesses on a global level.

We, the University of Naples Federico II, came to become closer acquainted with the ICSB over the course of fifteen years as we hosted the ICSB World Conference in 2007. Yet, more recently, through the intermediary of our faculty, Dr. Luca Iandoli, whom I understand will prepare to become the next President of the ICSB between the years of 2016-2017.

It brings me immense pride to our institution, regarded as the most ancient state-supported institutions of higher education and research in the world, to have our faculty represent an equally prestigious, if not global, institution dedicated to the growth and research of small and medium-sized enterprises across the world. It further prides us to now that, as our partnership will be the first ever in history, Dr. Iandoli's leadership will enter history as the youngest ICSB President and the first Italian. For that, we are deeply joyed and moved.

With that, we present to you warmest congratulations and heartfelt intent of establishing a partnership in support of ICSB activities worldwide. In particular, we commend you and the ICSB Board of Directors for the upcoming 61st annual World Conference, hosted under the theme of Sustainable Entrepreneurship in Society – Transforming Our World Together.

The University of Naples Federico II considers it a remarkable feat to further signify the ICSB's absolute global nature by working hand-in-hand with the United Nations and the United Nations Global Compact. We believe that this demonstrates a sincere intent to bring the change that the world most urgently needs in these years when it comes to increased collaboration between governments, institutions of higher education and research, and NGOs, such as yourself, to boost the impact of SMEs worldwide.

In closing, we stand in close arms to the ICSB and congratulate it for its upcoming accomplishments at the ICSB World Conference and the United Nations. This will set precedent for the future of change and international collaboration that the ICSB has, and will continue, to hold.

Sincerely,

Naples, 27th May 2016

*Gaetano MANFREDI
Rector of the University of Naples Federico II*

Dear Dr. Ki-Chan Kim,

It is with great pleasure that I write to you to congratulate you and the International Council for Small Business's ("ICSB") Board of Directors for the remarkable road to promoting entrepreneurship and small and medium businesses on a global level.

We are pleased to have the World Bank Group staff in attendance at the 2016 ICSB World Conference to deliver insights on the session titled, "Engaging SMEs for Growth and Development" on June 16, 2016, at the United Nations – Trusteeship Room.

It comes by with no doubt that engaging with the private sector is the foundation of any successful country's development strategy. But, the World Bank also recognizes that global development needs call for collective action between all stakeholders. The Trade and Competitiveness Global Practice of the World Bank Group helps the Bank Group achieve its twin goals—ending extreme poverty by 2030 and promoting shared prosperity—through rapid and broad-based economic growth, centered on strong contributions from the private sector.

The World Bank in the last few years has increasingly focused on supporting startups and SMEs that have potential to scale and become high-growth firms. In order to gather evidence and guide interventions in developing countries, the World Bank is launching a new flagship study on high growth entrepreneurship. The study will focus on the impact of high growth entrepreneurship on firm-level contributions to job and revenue growth.

The World Bank additionally believes it be a remarkable feat for the ICSB to encapsulate a global nature by working hand-in-hand with the United Nations and the United Nations Global Compact. We look forward to our partnering also with ICSB in our upcoming conference to be held October 13th and 14th in Washington, DC. It demonstrates a sincere intent to bring the change that the world most urgently needs in increased collaboration between governments, institutions of higher education and research, and NGOs, such as yourself, to boost the impact of SMEs worldwide.

In closing, we stand in close arms to the ICSB and congratulate it for its upcoming accomplishments at the ICSB World Conference and the United Nations. This will set precedent for the future of change and international collaboration that the ICSB has, and will continue, to hold.

Sincerely,

Klaus Tilmes
Director for the Trade and Competitiveness Global Practice of the World Bank Group

AN EXTRAORDINARY EXPERIENCE.

ICSB 2016 WILL FOCUS ON THE ROLE OF ENTREPRENEURSHIP AND INNOVATION IN ADVANCING SOCIETY'S SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS.

This summer, ICSB will bring together
the world's foremost NGOs, scholars, social entrepreneurs, policy-makers and others to present research and to discuss current issues facing the world around us.
